

Rebecca Buttery - TTS Student: 2002 - 2009

Current role: Residential Letting Negotiator

Career pathway:

I currently work at Shropshire's biggest estate agents Nock Deighton and have completed a BA degree in Specialist Religious Studies. I have two beautiful daughters who have inspired me to move from a Health Care Assistant in Pharmacy to studying at university. I was originally a Lettings Negotiator and Property Manager but have now made the decision to specialise in Lettings only and work full time.

Advice for students:

Religious studies is both an interesting subject and essential to understand the society we live in today. Knowledge of both world religions and factors outside of religion allows you to debate in more depth, political, ethical and religious issues affecting today's people.

Plans for the future:

Once achieving well in my degree I am looking to complete teacher training in a secondary school. I am also training for my ARLA membership at Nock Deighton.

Best memory of your time at Thomas Telford?

The relationship between staff and students at the school. TTS gives you the sense you are part of an extended family and has given me the confidence to put forward my views and feelings.
